

VIRTUAL CHEERS

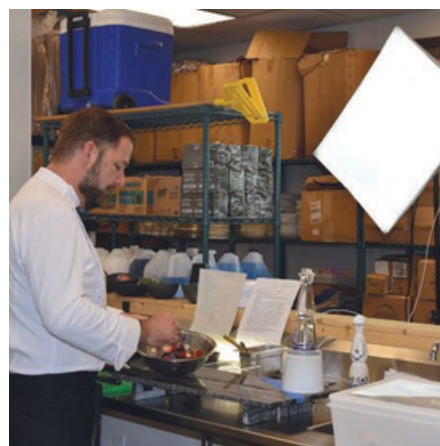

Wedding planners, engaged couples and local vendors meet on Zoom to experience the latest trends in cocktails, catering and floral arrangements.

Clockwise from top: Florist Isa Entreflores taught a virtual class on how to arrange the ultimate centerpiece; Dawn Costello, associate publisher of Modern Luxury Weddings South Florida and the Caribbean, hosted the virtual soiree; chef Harry Linzmayer of Le Basque whipped up an array of delectable dishes for the group.

While the pandemic may be changing the traditional Miami soiree, it hasn't put a damper on all events. And the wedding industry is made up of a group of tenacious vendors who specialize in creativity. In short: Nothing can stop the party. So, Modern Luxury Weddings South Florida and the Caribbean teamed up with Clase Azul Tequila, Le Basque Catering, TUR Kitchen, Florida Beach Wedding and Isa Entreflores Flower Studio to virtually showcase trends in events for newly engaged couples.

Hosted via Zoom at the new Leku restaurant at the Rubell Museum, where Le Basque is the exclusive caterer, wedding planners and engaged couples received an elegantly packaged empty Clase Azul decanter to be used as a vase, along with a cocktail kit. Additionally, Le Basque and Isa Entreflores Flower Studio delivered stunning gourmet culinary and floral kits, respectively.

After following along as mixologist Alexia Tapanes showed how to craft The Blushing Bride with Clase Azul Tequila, chef Harry Linzmayer of Le Basque made his delectable smoked wild mushroom ceviche dish. A beautiful meal needs an equally beautiful bouquet, so Isa Entreflores taught everyone how to decorate like a pro at home. She put together a stunning arrangement using an upcycled Clase Azul bottle as a vase. Brittany Madon with Florida Beach Wedding also offered floral styling tips. For a sweet ending, chef Linzmayer closed with a tequila-infused lemon sorbet and berry treat.

While this new style of event can be full of surprises, couples and planners alike gushed over the opportunity to gather together virtually and check out the latest trends. ■
